DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-23 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:
3. Many examples exist for generating photons from gases inside a vacuum chamber. See, for example, Melnychuk et al. (U.S. Patent Application Publication Number 20030006383, from hereinafter "Melnychuk") where in FIGS. 1-1A he illustrates the generation of ultra-violet an x-ray radiation (paragraph 0005). However, Melnychuk fails to teach a pressure and/or energy gradient, as in the instant application. Melnychuk further fails to teach more than one constituent (i.e. gas or vapor) being introduced into the chamber at any given instant in time. Likewise, though Golovanivsky et al. (U.S. Patent Number 5323442, from hereinafter "Golovanivsky") does teach creating photons from an ECR plasma source (see FIG. 2 and i.e., abstract), Golovanivsky fails to teach a pressure and/or energy gradient, as in the instant application, nor does he teach more than one constituent (i.e. gas or vapor) being introduced into the chamber at any given instant in time. Similarly, though Leung et al. (U.S. Patent Application Publication Number 20030006708, from hereinafter "Leung") does teach the generation of EUV radiation (see, i.e., abstract), Leung fails to teach a pressure and/or energy gradient, nor does Leung teach multiple constituents (indeed, he merely discloses a "xenon source"). Claims 2-23 are allowed by virtue of their dependency on the allowed claim 1.
4. Hence the best prior art of record fails to teach the invention as set forth in claim 1 and the examiner can find no teaching of the photon source comprising a gas pressure gradient that generates an energy gradient, such that more than one constituent (i.e. gas or vapor) may be used, nor reasons within the cited prior art or on her own to combine the elements of these references other than the applicant's own reasoning to fully encompass the current pending claims.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
